

THE FRANK VINDICATOR

VOL. I NO. 2

FRANK, ALBERTA, FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 30, 1910

$2.00 YEARLY

Burnis Notes

Mr. Westfall, of the Davenport Coal Co. has been appointed postmaster at Burnis.

Next week's issue of this paper will contain a brief outline of the works being carried out at Burnis.

Messrs. Woods and Steele, Dominion land surveyors were this week surveying the Burnis town site.

Morris Wilson and family, of the key ranch, Livingstone, are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Gammon at Passburg.

Two emigrant trains passed through here on Monday forenoon, and quite a number of our male sex were at the station to catch a glimpse of the Donkhorst's fair-est.

Presentations

The ladies of the Methodist Church gathered together on Monday night and tendered a "send off" to their pastor, Rev. J. E. Rogers, and also a reception to Rev. T. D. Jones and his bride, who had just arrived from England. A large gathering of friends assembled and a very interesting and pleasant programme was gone through. Speeches and singing occupied a large part of the evening, and a dainty supper was very much enjoyed. At the conclusion Rev. Mr. Rogers was presented with an address and purse of gold. Mr. Rogers made a suitable reply. Following this came the presentation of a wedding gift and address to the Rev. and Mrs. Jones. Mr. Jones felt very much touched with the prompt surprise and in a lengthy speech thanked the Church people for their token of regard and good wishes.—Bellevue

Frank Notes

Rev. T. D. Jones and bride arrived in Frank Saturday from the Old Country.

A. Mannal, proprietor of the Frank Hotel, went to Spokane on Thursday and returned Sunday.

E. Disney is erecting a residence at Frank for H. C. Moore, of Martin, Moore & McNeil, Barristers, etc.

George A. B. Jackson, of the South Fork, arrived in Frank on Friday night from an extended trip through the eastern States. Mr. Jackson has returned to his home at South Fork.

Don't waste your money buying places when you can get a bottle of Chamberlain's Liniment for twenty-five cents. A piece of flannel dampened with this liniment is superior to any plaster for lam- back, pains in the side and chest, and much cheaper. Sold by dealers everywhere.

Rev. F. Stacey McCall, who has acted as pastor of Knox Methodist Church for some time past, left on Monday night's train for Edmonton, where he will resume his studies at Alberta College.

Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is today the best known medicine in use for the relief and cure of bowel complaints. It cures griping, diarrhoea, dysentery, and should be taken at the first unusual looseness of the bowels. It is equally valuable for children and adults. It always cures. Sold by dealers everywhere.

It is rumored that Wilbur Wright will apply to the government for the grant to run an airship passenger line over the Frank slide. We expect to hear of a "tossing car" competing with the horsebomobiles some day.

"Can be depended upon" is an expression we all like to hear, and when it is used in connection with Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy it means that it never fails to cure diarrhoea, dysentery or bowel complaints. It is pleasant to take, and is equally valuable for children and adults. Sold by dealers everywhere.

A GRAND BANQUET AT FRANK

REV. F. S. McCALL FETED

The banquet given by the Ladies Aid of Knox Methodist Church at Frank on Thursday night last was the largest attended affair of its kind ever held in that town. The gathering, which numbered a little over two hundred, were representative of every denomination and town in the Pass, and the pleasant air that hovered among the audience gave full testimony of the esteem and respect in which the guest of honor had been held. Seven long tables, daintily spread with everything that tended to tempt the inner longings, were lined up in the rear end of the big Goyette Hall, to which every justice was done by even the fastidious tasters. After the supper a programme of speeches and songs was gone through. Among those assisting in the musical parts were Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lee, Miss McKinnon, Messrs. Richard and Robert McGowan, while Mr. W. Simpson did the honors of chairman of the evening. Among the speakers were Revs. T. M. Murray, J. Moore, J. F. Hunter, J. E. Rogers, and W. MacMorine, all of whom delivered very touching and appropriate addresses. Following the speeches came the presentation of an address and purse of gold to the guest of the evening, Rev. F. Stacey McCall. The following address was read and presented by the chairman to get with a purse of $65:

TO THE REVEREND F. STACEY McCALL, Dear Sir,—

The members of the Ladies Aid and church, and the officials and workers of the Sunday School join in thanking you for the hearty way you have worked for the furtherance of God's cause in Frank, and for the unselfish inspiration you have given us. We cannot say in words how much we appreciate your work among us, but we hope you will accept this token showing in a small degree the esteem and good will of us all, and accept with it our sincere wishes for your further success in the work, and hope that some day you may possibly return to us.

Pres. Mrs. A. I. Bliss.
Vice Pres. Mrs. Chas. Williams.
Secy. Mrs. F. M. Fowler.
Treas. Mrs. C. Pollakowsky.

The presentation was rather a surprise to Mr. McCall, who in the course of a lengthy reply voiced his gratitude for the sympathy and help tendered to him during his two month's pastorate and greatest of all to the God above who has blessed his labors with success.

Empire Restaurant
Serves as good meals as any place in the Pass at all hours, on short notice and at moderate prices.

Bellevue Notes

Steve Hantle's store is nearly completed and will soon be ready for stocking.

The line up of large business trucks on Main Street seem to speak for a busy future for Bellevue.

J. M. Callan, manager of the Bellevue Hotel, left on Thursday for the coast on a business vacation, and will be absent a week or so.

Steve Mosaghan was in town last week, looking over the work on the Southern Hotel. This hotel will be in readiness for re-opening about a month's time.

Rev. Mr. Rogers, who has labored here for the past two months, and has won such favor among the people of the town and district, left on Wednesday for Edmonton to resume college studies.

Phil Hart, the butcher, paid a visit to the Forks last week and purchased several heads of cattle and hogs. Some of Phil's hog purchases are the finest specimens we have seen and show what can be done in hog raising in the foothill country.

Not a minute should be lost when a child shows symptoms of croup. Chamberlain's Cough Remedy given as soon as the child becomes hoarse, or even after the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. Sold by dealers everywhere.

I. Goodman

Has opened up a genteel furnishing store near the Empire Restaurant, Frank.

A full line of goods and furnishings is on the way and is daily expected. When this large shipment arrives, I shall have one of the best genteel furnishing stores in this district and will be in a position to cater to the needs of all classes of men.

I solicit a share of your patronage.

A COUP ON POVERTY.

It Was a Plan That Worked to a Charm.

By LLOYD LOGAN.
(Copyright, 1914, American Press Association.)

"It is miserably true, ma chere, Marie refused poverty to follow Antoine and myself to town and carry our warts, wrinkles and parcels. She said to be a maid in a great family did not compare with her respect as an individual." Vivienne de la Vergne dramatically threw herself on the window seat.

"Ma chere, de la Vergne was looking over bills at the cashier. Without an evening her daughter, who buried her face in her arms and wept.

"The last rose of summer left blooming alone," sang Antoinette, the other daughter, as she came down the hall and entered the room.

"It seems," she added pleasantly, "that I am the last rose."

"She was standing in the doorway. Neither Vivienne nor Ma chere de la Vergne looked up, so absorbed were they with their own thoughts.

"Pere is walking the floor in the library," she continued. "He is horridistract. He told me Vivienne's jewels went last night."

"My jewels!" cried Vivienne, suddenly aroused and thoroughly alarmed. Madame lifted her tear-stained face.

"Vivienne's jewels also," she reiterated dully.

"Also," answered Antoinette bitterly. "Also, that is not the best of my griefs because they are the last things he can legitimately take. I am of age, and my belongings are mine. To think," he says, "I shall be compelled to steal from my own family!"

Vivienne rushed from the room in a rage.

Antoinette, going to her mother, put her arms around her.

"I'd be a help, ma chere."

"Antoinette, what could you do-you, the daughter of Marquis Auguste de la Vergne, the great-granddaughter of Vivienne Casavette, who was one of the maids of honor to Marie Antoinette? My whole life has been a series of negotiations. This is just one more.

The first trial was when we lost our ancestral home in France. Madame always said 'we lost.' She would not acknowledge she lived with a gambler, even though a gentleman. The little pretence was a master of self respect.

"The next to go was our villa just out of New Orleans. Since you were a wee child we have lived in this orange grove in Florida. Your father would play as a gentleman, losing thousands at a single game. Oh, these games, elusive wagers, luring him on to destruction, poor man! The service vase he cannot touch without my signature! It has come down directly through my family."

"I don't know where we shall live," she continued. "I have been struggling to make respectability dwell with poverty, and," she added softly, "it is pure poison and tragedy."

The debutante Auguste de la Vergne tripped lightly into the room, clad in white damask of exquisite texture and correctly tailored. With the perfect savoir faire of a Frenchman he gently kissed his wife's forehead. Going over to the glass door, he stepped out on the veranda. With the utmost care he turned, waving his hand.

"An revolver!" he called and passed out on the steel walk beyond.

He had clung, iron-willed, to the youth of his mind, though it was indisputably true that age had crept prematurely on his face. After a fashion he loved his wife and daughters. He would have been proud to have given them every advantage that had been theirs for generations. They had ceased to be interested in these dreams. There was nothing more fundamentally worrisome than his pretences and talk about lineage without any actual accomplishment.

"I can do something," Antoinette repeated, with gentle emphasis. "Ma chere, we will take count of stock."

as Marie's husband says soon or more. We will see, first, what our assets are." Antoinette held up her pretty white hand to count the "assets" on her fingers as her mother took them off.

"Your heart, our most valuable 'asset' is our family name, that hardly has a money value."

"I am not so sure," mused Antoinette. "There are hordes of people—good people, too—who would give anything to be a guest at our home, to be able to speak with familiarity of our belongings."

Antoinette, sitting on an ottoman at her mother's feet, clasped her hands around her knees and thought, wringing her small, delicate brows in perplexity and doubt. She had a remarkable aptitude for that kind of addition known as putting two and two together.

"I've said positively that this house will be the best thing to go. Now, we have many beautiful pieces of furniture, silver, lace, and so on, that is really very good, charming associations that make the relative value high. You and I, dear, will go through the house and put a price on what we would be willing to sell and gather them together in the music room, library and drawing room, mixing them with the things we would not part with for untold gold. That will apparently give them a greater value."

Madame dramatically clasped her hands.

"You do not mean we would sell our belongings to a vulgar mob like common tradespeople?" she cried in horror.

"No, no. We would give a little 'at home' or 'tea,' very informal. You could wear your black lace, and the lace scarf thrown over your shoulders would hide the hole in the back; Vivienne her green colored silk, the one made out of grandmother's veil, and I the violet chiffon with black velvet."

"Then," she continued, "we would invite a choice few, thirty persons, not more. Believe me, they will say every engagement to accept an invitation to the first entertainment given by the De la Vergnes. See, mother, using our asset No. 1, our family name. After they have been here some time we will casually remark: 'We are going back to New Orleans. We are distressed about our collection of antiques. We are going to board, and articles of such value we really cannot spare. We would be willing to dispose of a few, but cannot bear the thought of just any one—unappreciative people, as it were—owning them.'"

Antoinette was so delighted with the idea she danced all over the room. Coming back to her mother, she kissed her on the forehead.

After much debate and family conferences the "tea" was given. What wondrous weariness and hope delayed and anxiety for the welfare of one's best loved will accomplish in the way of disintegrating self respect! Punch was served in the library, laces and silks in the dining room; on the grand table were confections and fruit. The guests were congenial, delighted, complimentary and bought freely; they were also all wealthy. Antoinette saw to that.

Every woman there took particular pains to call immediately on all her best friends who were not present, chosen and casually to refer to the other afternoon at the De la Vergnes. They schemed how they, too, could manage an invitation. Not being a public sale, an invitation was a necessity. In about two weeks Antoinette in her mother's name deplored the chosen thirty telling each one to bring a few friends—she could trust them, she knew—and spend another afternoon at the Chateau de Fleuret.

This time a different costume was arranged for the three ladies of the household. The second "tea" was even a greater success than the first. One dozen of Napoleon's breakfast plates sold for $200 and a Persian rug for $800. The bank account was growing to most encouraging proportions. The trouble now was they had really few pieces left they cared to sell. The service vase and some family heirlooms Madame refused to part with.

"It is a miserable shame," wept Antoinette, "after we have created the demand, established the fact, we cannot create the supply."

Unheard of circumstance! The next morning Antoinette drove to the city alone and unattended at a very early hour.

Arriving at the telegraph office, Antoinette wired to certain dealers in antiques, little holes in the wall in New Orleans, the Corbels and various articles that she named. She knew of these places because many of their beautiful pieces had found in those stores a temporary home.

So events developed. The De la Vergnes received antiques in the back door and sold them out the front door. Every other Thursday witnessed crowds of buyers. Every one's "dear friends" were now invited. The "few gold pieces given to the dear girls" was a horde sufficient to place them both in a convent in Paris for a year, leaving a "dot" large enough for an entire dowry, which would insure a successful marriage. Poorly had served quite a dramatic part in the success, which was really quite a coup.

HOLIDAY-MAKERS IN ENGLAND.

Men Who Take Holidays and Men Who Make Them.

Holiday-makers are not so common as one is apt, at first blush, to imagine, for, when we mention "holiday-makers," it is not "holiday-makers" we really mean, but "holiday-takers."

The men who take holidays, and the men who make them are of a very different order. The former spend the greater portion of their lives endeavoring to make a pleasure of business, while the latter succeed in making a business of pleasure. Vacations are their vocation.

King among the small company of true holiday-makers is Sir Henry Lunn, whose inclusion among the new knights has caused such general satisfaction. For almost twenty years "Dr. Lunn's Tours" have been a feature of every holiday season, and he has been holidaying in the most literal sense of the words.

"Curiously enough," Sir Henry told an interviewer recently, "I have, during the past few years, entirely reversed the principle on which I work in the days of the Grindelwald Conference, when I was the organizer of my tourist campaigns. My object then was to bring together people who differed. My object now is to bring together people who agree."

"But, no matter how careful one may be, on very rare occasions one is bound to find a gooseberry in the strawberry basket, or a strawberry among the gooseberries. I recall one gentleman who got mixed in with a party of savants with whom I went on a cruise to the Isles of Greece."

Naturally, the talk on this particular expedition was somewhat learned, while the places we visited were mainly of academic interest. He stood it bravely for some days, without a murmur of complaint, till I came upon him standing on the steps of the Museum at Olympia, passing a handkerchief across a forehead brow.

"He regarded me reproachfully for a minute. Then he exclaimed: 'It's all right, but I've got to go. I'll take my three good words and Blackpool to get over this.'"

"Quite an unexpected incident happened at the time of Queen Victoria's Diamond Jubilee. I had chartered three steamer ships, the Grosvenor, the Koh-i-Noor—for the Monday Naval Pageant, but on the Monday before the eventful Saturday discovered that only a handful of people had applied for places on the lascar."

"At almost the same moment I learned that Lord Lochinvar was encountering great trouble in arranging for the presence at the review all the Colonial troops."

"One telegraphed, saying: 'Can you put your disposal steamer and two special trains for the conveyance of Colonial troops.'"

"Lord Lochinvar was glad to avail himself of my offer as I was to save what looked like being a serious fiasco in this way. I was in the Government, and the Government helped me."

"One of the most remarkable examples of Sir Henry's enterprise is the manner in which he has opened up the different valleys in Switzerland during the winter season. A few years ago these valleys were all closed in winter, and no skis or tobogganers disturbed their virgin snows or skated on their lakes. Today, Sir Henry's control, less than $500,000, in these Alpine valleys, which are mainly occupied each winter by members of the famous Swiss School of Alpine Sports Club, of which the headmaster of Eton is president, and Karl Roberts and the Earl of Lytton are vice-presidents."

The Trade of Royalty.

No advertisement is more valuable to a British tradesman than the royal warrant which allows him to place the royal arms over his place of business and describe himself as "purveyor by appointment to His Majesty the King."

Each tradesman who has the royal custom must send in his bill at the end of the month. It is compared with his ledger account kept at Marlborough House and if correct is placed in the first week of the month. No discount is asked on any of the royal accounts, a tradesman who receives the royal custom is informed that he must supply goods at the lowest reasonable prices and there is never any attempt at bargaining by the official of the royal household. If a tradesman is thought to be making extortionate charges he simply loses the royal custom.

Coal is supplied to Marlborough House by contract, the contracts being made for three years and the contractors paid in equal half yearly payments. Window cleaning, carpet cleaning and chimney sweeping are all done by contract and the glass frames of large pictures are also kept clean by contract.

Servants' wages are paid monthly, the upper servants being paid by check sent to each from the Treasurer's Department. The King's accounts for clothes, cigars, theatres, newspapers, books and other personal articles are sent to his secretary, not the Treasurer, and are also paid monthly. King George always like to see these accounts before they are paid, and it was once a rule that they should be initiated by him before they were discharged.

A Wet Harvest Relic.

A curious relic has just been found at Barton, in the parish of Tunstead and Happing, 1815. One Halfpenny Farthing, the Coronation Medal, was the year of the wet harvest, the worst ever known. It raised insects all Summer, and the corn rotted during most of November, and on November 29 farmers were carrying barley, a sharp wind frost pressed in. Wheat was 63 shillings a bush, and so bad was it in quality that dough from the flour resembled mud.

Every Monday morning the overseers and church wardens met at the parish church to devise means to provide employment and relieve the starving poor.—London Standard.

Dies at 109.

John Perfect, aged 109 years, and said to be the oldest man in England, died at Cootamundra recently. He had lived under six monarchs, from George III. to George V.

FRANK, ALBERTA, Friday, Sept. 10, 1920

Editorial Notes

England has a U.S.A. of her own—United South Africa.

The ex-president of the United States is still wielding the big stick and the bosses dread his coming.

General Botha, the premier of South Africa, has failed to secure any general support from the English speaking electors of that country. This may lead to a retirement of his government.

The fishermen of Labrador and the Straits may no longer depend solely on the trap for their catches. The fish keep out in deep water and the trawls will have to be resorted to in future if those fishermen are to secure paying catches.

Reports from Macleod say that Maunsell, the Liberal candidate, is having victory all along the line and that on Monday night next it will be Edward H. Maunsell, M.P. P. Evidently the Macleod people know a good thing when they see it.

It is now supposed that the U.S.A. will be remodelled because of the angry mood in which Lord Northcliffe got the other day, when the New York customs officials insisted upon inspecting his personal effects before the ship on which he was riding was allowed to enter the harbor of New York.

The chances for Mr. Riley's reelection in the Gleichen riding are very doubtful. A. J. McArthur seems to be the favorite of the voters of that constituency. In Mr. McArthur the Gleichen electors will have to represent them in the provincial house a sane, careful and conscientious man.

When Self-Amusing Charley comes Ter Town

Chas. O'Brien exercised his vocal chords in front of the Miners' hall on Sunday night for a considerable period. Charley has a sonorous baritone that is a pleasure to him to hear. —Ferne Free Press.

Charley O'Brien, the socialist star of Blairmore, held an open air meeting last Saturday evening on Main street. Charley wished to impress his audience with the fact that they were all slaves, his audience seemed to be largely composed of Russians. For once Charley was right.—Home Times.

A special industrial edition of The Nelson Daily News, published on Saturday last, is nicely illustrated, and ably and very creditably written besides being the production of mechanical experts. It advertises the Kootenays and should do much towards attracting many thirty-homesekers to that great fruit growing country.

J. R. Wallace and G. L. Pedler, manager and editor respectively of the Fernie Free Press, are the luckiest newspaper men that we have yet heard tell of. At the annual rifle shoot held last week in Fernie, Mr. Wallace won a shield, a medal, a barrel of Mutz's beer and three cups, a suckling pig and a knife, and a grip while his partner won a turkey and a medal.

Coleman Notes

Dr. Warneck, M.P.P., was up from Pincher Creek on Tuesday.

E. Morino and F. G. Graham were in Nelson this week.

A miner was hurt here at the I. C. & C Co's mines on Monday.

E. Disney has secured the contract for the erection of ten miners' cottages at Burnis.

P. Burns & Co. are going to install a combination ice box at their meat market here.

J. W. Glenwright, provincial manager of the Prudential Life Insurance Co., came down from Calgary on Tuesday.

S. D. Bridges, secretary-treasurer for the Carbondale Lumber Co., returned from the East, on Wednesday, accompanied by his bride.

Coleman Lodge, I.O.O.F., has been asked to conduct the services at the institution of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows at Blairmore on October 25th.

Rev. W. MacMorine intends leaving here about the latter part of next month. This will leave St. Albans church without a minister. Mr. MacMorine will go to Ontario.

Frank Parker, formerly of the R. N. W. M. P. here, was caught in Nelson on Saturday last charged with being a deerster from the police force and was brought here on Tuesday.

UNSHIGHTLY COMPLEXIONS
The constant use of Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, for toilet, bath and nursing purposes, not only preserves, purifies and beautifies the skin, scalp, hair, but cures, and prevents inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and other unwholesome conditions of the complexion and skin. All who delight in a clear skin, soft and white hair, a clean wholesome scalp and live lustrous hair, will find Cuticura Soap and Ointment most successful in realizing every expectation.

LACK OF PURE BLOOD

The Cause of Most Illness—The Cure, Enrich the Blood Supply.

Any illness caused by lack of blood will be benefited and cured by a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. These Pink Pills increase the red matter in the blood and enable it to carry to every part of the body an increased supply of oxygen, the great supporter of all organic life. This has been proved by cures in thousands of cases not only in Canada but in all parts of the world. More people today enjoy health and happiness to Dr. Williams' Pink Pills than to any other medicine. One of these is Mr. James Starr, of Galahad, Alta., who says:
"A few years ago I became ill and very weak. Some days I would have a hot dry fever and on others would be bathed in a cold sweat. I grew weaker and weaker until I could do no kind of work and was finally convinced to my bed. I tried many doctors, who cost me considerable money, but did me no good, as I was still getting weaker. After taking I asked the last doctor who attended me to tell me frankly if he could cure me, and he told me not to waste so complicated that he did not think he could help me. I told him I had heard a great deal about Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and asked if he thought they would help me. His reply was: "Well, they won't do you any harm and they may help you."
I sent for a half dozen boxes at once and began taking them. After taking three boxes there was no doubt they were helping me, and I continued using them for some time longer, with the result that I am now as strong and hearty and can do as good a day's work as any man to do my neighborhood."

These Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine
Co., Brockville, Ont.

"Oh, at least fifty times. I should

"And how many cases have you

"Only two. One of them went into out leaving a dollar."

It is Wise to Prevent Disorder—Many causes lead to disorders of the stomach and liver are free from them.
At the first manifestation that the stomach and liver are not performing their functions, a course of Farnham's Vegetable Pills should be tried, and it will be found that the digestive organs will speedily resume healthy action.
Laxatives and sedatives are so blended in these pills that no other preparation could be so effective as they.

Always Serviceable—Most pills lose their properties with age. Not so with Farnham's Vegetable Pills. The pills are so compounded that their strength and effectiveness is preserved and the pills can be carried anywhere without fear of losing their potency.
This is a quality that few pills possess. Some pills lose their power, but not so with Farnham's. They will maintain their freshness and potency for a long time.

THE LOST CHANNEL.

How a Picturesque Spot in the Thousand Islands Was Named.

Few of the visitors to the Thousand Islands realize how many historical associations this region possesses. It has always been the boundary line between nations, and every great war in the history of America has been a more or less small tragedy erected near its waters.

In the year 1760 two armed vessels, the Onondaga and the Mohawk, with 1,000 men on board, under the command of Gen. Jeffrey (Lord Amherst), set out from Oswego, N.Y., intent on capturing Montreal.

Just as the expedition was entering the St. Lawrence a lookout on the Onondaga saw a bateau filled with soldiers putting feet from an island and heading down the river.
Judging at once that they were French scouts, the two invading ships gave chase, hoping to capture the bateau.

After going several miles the bateau suddenly veered, at a point where three hills extend into the river and ran down a narrow channel between a large island and several smaller ones. It then passed out into a larger, bayside, where the channel was seen another and a larger channel extending among the islands. Knowing that a chase between the islands was usually very deep the Onondaga continued the pursuit. When the vessel was suddenly attacked from all sides by the Indians and his crew were ordered to lower the boat and to bear a message to the captain of the Mohawk, telling him that the main body of the expedition was another boat was then lowered to seek out a passageway and a deep channel being found, the Onondaga dropped anchor below the thicket group of islands and awaited
the return of the Mohawk and his crew.
The return of the Mohawk was ordered to lower the cutter and search for them. He returned after some hours, having found a narrow channel. He had been bewildered by the intricate channels and numerous islands and had not been able to find the channel through which the Onondaga passed. It was thought probable that the Mohawk

BLAIRMORE IS CENTRE

The fact that P. Burns & Co. are making Blairmore their headquarters for the Pass and are about to erect a large meat market at this place is but another proof of Blairmore's importance as a business centre.

F. Woodyard, the superintendent of construction for P. Burns & Co., is in Blairmore making preparations for the erection of a meat market which is to be sixty-five feet long, twenty-five wide, and will probably have two stories. Already things have been arranged to have the present building moved across the street where the business will be carried on until the new building is ready for occupancy.

The new building will be erected on the old site and will have a large combination ice house and refrigerator. This will mean a big saving of meat for the company. As it is now much meat is spoiled and, of course, thrown away. And all this waste because there have been no means of keeping it fresh and clean for any length of time the same as the big meat shops in the cities have. The weekly saving by the company along The Pass

As Others See Blairmore

Blairmore must be increasing very rapidly in population when one of the young men from Coleman got lost there recently.—Coleman Miner.

The municipal council of the village of Blairmore has let the contract for the installation of a waterworks system at that place. W. J. Budd of Blairmore, was the successful tenderer. The water will be taken from Wolf Creek at a point about two miles distant and will be brought to the village in 12 inch wire wound wooden pipes. The intake is 200 feet above the town giving a gravity pressure of about 85 lbs to the square inch. When completed Blairmore will have a first-class water supply of sufficient capacity for a city of twenty thousand people.—Fernie Free Press.

are enormous and their efforts in giving their patrons nothing but wholesome and fresh meats have been very successful, but the new refrigerator with a temperature of 32 degrees will preserve the meats and will prevent of there being any waste.

Realizing that Blairmore is the best place for the distributing point, the company will make it their head quarters for The Pass and will make their wholesale shipments from Blairmore.

Amongst the many other building improvements proposed by some of Blairmore's business men is a large addition to the Blairmore hotel. Plans are completed for a forty-five ft. addition to the north end of this hotel. It will be two stories and will have a sample room, an increase to the dining room besides several bedrooms on the second floor. This will make the Blairmore one of the largest hotels in this district. The improvements will cost about $7,000.

AT THE BRICK WORKS

Blairmore Will Have One of Largest and Best

A conversation which recently took place at a railway station not many hundred miles from here ran as follows: "Where does all the brick come from? One car load of bricks passed this way going west yesterday and two more car loads today. This surely indicates a good output at some place." When the freight train side-tracked to allow a passenger train to pass, the person addressed said to his companion: "You might easily find out this by walking over to the train, and if the brick is of good quality you will see the name of the home of this industry stamped in the brick." And sure enough it was there in plain letters—BLAIRMORE. This makes Blairmore the home of another good industry.

In June, 1909, Henry Pelletier seeing the necessity of opening up an industry here that would produce good building brick for the use of the Pass residents soon became active and in a very short time had buildings erected and machinery installed and was shipping car loads of brick before many of Blairmore's residents knew that such an industry was being carried on so near their doors. Ever since its inception the Blairmore brick yards have been known for this high-grade product and its fame has spread all over the North West and only this week a large shipment was consigned to Vancouver. Notwithstanding the great demand locally for this brick, the owners have been able to make large consignments to outside points, but although the daily output now averages about 20,000, it is much less than the demand.

In June last W. J. Budd purchased from H. Pelletier all his holdings in the brick yards at Blairmore and became sole owner. Mr. Budd at once secured the services of an expert brick maker in the person of F. Pendergast and gave him the management of the entire works. Mr. Pendergast is a brick maker of long experience and was for several years manager of the brick works at Sandstone.

As we have already stated the demand for this product is far greater than the supply. Mr. Budd has decided to increase the output by installing more machinery and building more kilns. The number of kilns now in use is three but during the coming winter these will be taken down and eight up-to-date down-draught kilns will be constructed. The brick in the new kilns will roast and dry in eighteen days whereas it requires thirty days for the present kilns to do their work. A still better brick will also be made.

The proposed improvements will cost $50,000 and in about six months the Blairmore will have as good, if not better brick works than any other place in the West.
